A free demo available here free-roaming squad-based RPG focusing on open sandbox gameplay features rather than linear history. Be an entrepreneur, thief, rebel, warlord, adventurer, farmer, slave or just food for cannibals. Research new equipment and create new equipment. Buy and upgrade your own buildings to use as safe, fortified havens when things go wrong, or use them to start a business. Help or defy the various factions of the world, seeking the strength and wealth necessary simply to survive in the harsh desert. Train your people with paltry victims to master the warriors. Take your injured teammates to safety and take them all home. Casual gameplay in the world of seamless gaming in the largest single-player RPG world since Daggerfall, stretching over 870 square kilometers. The game will never seek to limit you or limit your personal style of play. Custom design as many characters as you want and build an entire squad to fight for you. Characters will grow and become stronger with experience, not only in their stats, but also in their appearance. Original approach to the HYBRID RTS-RPG genre. No character heroes with artificially stronger stats than everyone else -

Every character and NPC you meet is potentially equal and has a name, life. You are not elected. You are not great and powerful. You don't have more hitpoints than everyone else. You are not the center of the universe and you are not unique. Unless you work for him. Build a base where you can explore new technologies, improve defenses, and create new tools. Buy and upgrade your own buildings to use as safe, fortified havens when things go wrong, or use them to start a business. Variation and gameplay possibilities. Be good, be angry, be a businessman or a thief, live in the city, live in the desert, travel alone, travel in hordes, build a fortress, level the city. Devote yourself to freeing slaves, and you may end up being a slave. A dynamic, ever-changing world. Support or disturb anyone you want, or keep it to yourself, the world will not stop moving. It's not just a game, you live and live in a simulated world. Get caught cannibals and eat alive or sold by slaves and forced to work in mines. These are not scripted events, but a regular part of this chaotic world that is ruining your life by accident. Anything can happen, but everything can be overcome if you have strength. Absolutely no level scaling. The world doesn't rise with you, and stores don't change their inventory just for items that match your level. At the beginning of the game, almost everyone will be stronger than you, and survival will always be a struggle. The game won't hold your hand or help when you're down. Realistic system which affects the gameplay. A character with an injured leg will row or crawl and slow down the party, injured arms mean you need to use the sword with one hand or not at all. Serious injuries will lead to amputation robotic replacements for limbs. Blood loss means you can pass out and blood will attract predators. Character stats are at risk of equipment, load, blood loss, injury, and starvation. Intelligent AI that allows characters to sense and work for long-term goals and desires. Troops work together and carry the wounded to safety. Characters can be configured to take care of micro-management for you and start production in your database. Help or defy the various factions of the world, seeking the strength and wealth necessary simply to survive in difficult conditions. Independently developed without affecting the design, or changes dictated by men in gray suits who have never played a game in their lives before. The original game world. There are no fantasy-knock-off cliches. No magic. Your computer may not meet the hardware requirements; maybe you bought the game by mistake; maybe you played the title for an hour and just didn't like it. It doesn't matter. Valve, upon request via help.steampowered.com, will refund the money for any reason if the request is made within the required refund period and in the case of games if the title has been played for less than two hours. Below are more details, but even if you don't follow the refund policy we've described, you can request a refund and we'll check. You will be refunded a full refund within one week of approval. You'll receive a refund through your Steam Wallet or the same payment method you used to make the purchase. If for any reason Steam is unable to export. (Some Steam payment methods in your country may not support a refund back to your original payment method. Click here for the full list.) Steam's refund offer applies to games and apps in the Steam Store within two weeks of purchase and less than two hours of playtime. Here's an overview of how returns work with other types of purchases. Returns on content download (Steam Store content that can be downloaded in another game or app, DLC) purchased from The Steam Store is refundable within fourteen days of purchase, and if the base title was played less than two hours after the DLC purchase, unless the DLC has been consumed, modified, or transferred. Please note that in some cases Steam will not be able to refund money for some third-party LC (for example, if the DLC irreversibly level the character in the game). These exceptions will be clearly marked as non-refundable on the Store's website prior to purchase. Refunds for in-game purchases of Steam will offer a refund for in-game purchases of games developed by Valve within forty-eight hours of purchase, unless the in-game item is consumed, modified, or moved. Third-party developers will be able to enable in-game item returns under these conditions. Steam will inform you at the time of purchase if the game developer has decided to offer a refund for the in-game item purchased. Otherwise, non-Valve in-game purchases are non-refundable via Steam. Pre-ordered title returns After you pre-purchase the title on Steam (and pay for the title in advance), you can request a refund at any time before the title is released. There is also a standard 14-day/two-hour return period starting from the game's release date. Steam Wallet Refunds You can request a refund of your Steam Wallet within fourteen days of purchase if you purchased it on Steam and if you have not used any of these funds. Revolving Subscriptions For some content and services, Steam offers periodic (e.g., monthly, annual) access that you pay for on a recurring basis. If your revolving subscription wasn't used during your current billing cycle, you can request a refund within 48 hours of your first purchase or within 48 hours of auto-renewal. Content is deemed to have been consumed if any of the benefits or discounts included in the subscription have been used, consumed, modified or transferred during the current billing cycle. Keep in mind that you can cancel an active subscription at any time by going to your account information. Once canceled, your subscription will no longer automatically renew, but you'll retain access to your subscription content and benefits until the end of your current billing cycle. Steam Equipment Within the applicable time frame set out in the Hardware Return Policy, you may request a refund for Steam equipment and accessories purchased through Steam for any reason. You must send the equipment back to us within fourteen (14) days after requesting a refund by following the instructions you provide. For detailed guidance on how to return and cancel Steam hardware and accessories, see the Hardware Return Policy. Returns in bundles You can get a full refund for any package in the Steam Store, unless any of the items in the bundle have been moved and the total life of all items in the pack is more than two hours. If your bundle contains an in-game item or non-refundable DLC, Steam will let you know if the entire bundle is refundable at check-out. Purchases made outside the Steam valve cannot provide a refund for purchases made outside of Steam (for example, CD keys or Steam wallet cards purchased from third parties). VAC Bans If you have been banned by VAC (Valve Anti-Cheat system) in the game, you lose the right to return this game. Video Content We are unable to offer a refund for Steam video content (e.g. videos, shorts, TV shows, episodes and tutorials) unless the video is bundled with other (non-video) content for return. Returns of gifts not returned with gifts can be refunded within the standard 14-day/two-hour refund period. Completed gifts can be returned under the same conditions if the recipient of the gift initiates a refund. The funds used to purchase the gift will be returned to the original purchaser. Right of withdrawal To find out how the right to withdraw from the EU for Steam customers works, click here. Abuse returns are designed to remove the risk of buying titles on Steam, not as a way to get free games. If we find that you are abusing returns, we may stop offering them to you. We do not consider it an abuse to claim a refund of a title that was purchased just before the sale and then immediately repurchase that title at the sale price. If linking accounts requires you to transfer information about your Valve person to a third party, you will be notified prior to the start of the call and you will be able to consent to the linking and transmission of your information. Your use of your information by a third party will be subject to the privacy policy of the third party, which we encourage you to read. 5.8 Valve may share Personal Data to comply with court orders or laws and regulations that require us to disclose such information. 6. User Rights and Controls The Data Protection Laws of the European Economic Area, California and other territories grant certain rights to their residents with respect to their personal data. While other jurisdictions may provide fewer statutory rights, we provide tools to exercise these rights to our customers around the world. To make it easy for you to exercise your data protection rights, we provide a special section on the Steam Support (Privacy Panel) page. This gives you access to your personal data, allows you to rectify and delete it if necessary and object to its use if necessary. To access it, log in to the Steam support page and select the My Account menu items -> data associated with your Steam account. In most cases, you can access, manage, or delete personal information on the Privacy Dashboard, but you can also contact Valve with questions or requests through the contact processes described in sections 8 and 10 below. As a resident of the European Economic Area, you have the following rights with respect to Your Personal Data: 6.1 Right of Access. You have the right to access your personal data that we hold about you, i.e. the right to request free (i) information about whether your Personal Data is stored, (ii) access to and/or (iii) duplicate personal data of detainees. You may exercise your right of access to your personal data through the Privacy Panel. If the application violates the rights and freedoms of others or is manifestly unfounded or excessive, the right to charge a reasonable fee (taking into account the administrative costs of providing information or communication or taking the requested action) or refuse to take action on request. 6.2 Right to rectification. If linking accounts requires you to transfer information about your Valve person to a third party, you will be notified prior to the start of the call and you will be able to consent to the linking and transmission of your information. Your use of your information by a third party will be subject to the privacy policy of the third party, which we encourage you to read. 5.8 Valve may share Personal Data to comply with court orders or laws and regulations that require us to disclose such information. 6. User Rights and Controls The Data Protection Laws of the European Economic Area, California and other territories grant certain rights to their residents with respect to their personal data. While other jurisdictions may provide fewer statutory rights, we provide tools to exercise these rights to our customers around the world. To make it easy for you to exercise your data protection rights, we provide a special section on the Steam Support (Privacy Panel) page. This gives you access to your personal data, allows you to rectify and delete it if necessary and object to its use if necessary. To access it, log in to the Steam support page and select the My Account menu items -> data related to your Steam account. In most cases, you can access, manage, or delete your personal information on the privacy dashboard, but you can also contact Valve with questions or requests through the sections 8 and 10 below. As a resident of the European Economic Area, you have the following rights with respect to Your Personal Data: 6.1 Right of Access. You have the right to access your personal data that we hold about you, i.e. the right to request free (i) information about whether your Personal Data is stored, (ii) access to and/or (iii) duplicate personal data of detainees. You may exercise your right of access to your personal data through the Privacy Panel. If the request violates the rights and freedoms of others or is manifestly unfounded or excessive, we reserve the right to charge a reasonable fee (taking into account the administrative costs of providing information or communication or taking the requested action) or refuse to take action on request. 6.2 Right to rectification. If we process your personal data, we will make every effort to ensure, by implementing appropriate measures, that your Personal Data is accurate and up-to-date for the purposes for which it was collected. If your personal information is inaccurate or incomplete, you can change the information you provide through the Privacy Panel. 6.3. Right to erasure. You have the right to erasure of personal data concerning you if the reason why we could collect it (see section 2 above) no longer exists or if there is another legal basis for deleting it. For individual pieces of personal information, you should edit it through the Privacy Panel or request removal through the Steam Support page. You can also request removal of your Steam user account via the Steam support page. As a result of deleting your Steam user account, you will lose access to Steam services, including your Steam user account, Subscriptions and game-related information associated with your Steam User Account, and the ability to access other services that you use with your Steam User Account. We allow you to restore your Steam account within a grace period of 30 (thirty) days from the time you request removal of your Steam account. This feature allows you not to lose your account by mistake, due to loss of account login information or due to intrusion. During the suspension period, we will be able to finalize financial and other activities that may have been initiated prior to the request to delete your Steam user account. At the end of the grace period, the personal data associated with your account will be deleted subject to section 4. Above. In some cases, deleting your Steam user account, thereby deleting your personal information, is complicated. Namely, if your account has a business relationship with Valve, for example because of your work for the game developer, you will only be able to delete your Steam user account after you transfer that role to another user or terminate the business relationship. In some cases, taking into account the complexity and number of requests, the period for the deletion of personal data may be extended, but not more than two consecutive 6.4 Right to object. When our processing of your personal data is based on legitimate interests in accordance with c Art. If you object, we will no longer process your personal data unless there are relevant and legitimate grounds for processing, as described in Art., in particular if the data are necessary for the establishment, exercise or defence of legal claims. You also have the right to lodge a complaint with a supervisory authority. 6.5 The right to restrict the processing of your personal data You have the right to restrict the processing of your Personal Data under the conditions set out in Art. 6.6 The right to data portability You have the right to receive your personal data in a structured, commonly used and machined format and has the right to transfer this data to another controller in accordance with the conditions set out in Article 20 of the GDPR. Valve shares your personal information in structured HTML format through the Privacy Dashboard as described above. 6.7 Right to post-mortem inspection of your personal data If French data protection laws apply to you, you have the right to establish guidelines for the storage, deletion and transfer of personal data after death in accordance with Articles 40-1 of Law No 78-17 of 6 January 1978 on information, technology, data files and civil liberties. 7. Children The minimum age to create a Steam user account is 13 years. Valve will not knowingly collect personal information from children under this age. Where certain countries use a higher age of consent to collect Personal Data, Valve requires parental consent before creating a Steam User Account and collecting personal information. Valve encourages parents to instruct their children never to provide personal information online. 8. Contact Information You can contact Valve's Data Protection Officer at the following address. While we process any requests sent by mail, please note that in order to combat fraud, harassment and identity theft, the only way to access, rectify or delete your data is to log in to your Steam user account and select the menu item -> My Account Information -> View. 1. Definitions Wherever we speak of personal data below, we mean any information that may either identify you as an individual (Personally Identifiable Information) or that may be linked to you indirectly by combining it with personal information. Valve also processes anonymous data, aggregated or not, to analyze and create statistics related to the habits, usage patterns and demographics of customers as a group or as individuals. Such anonymous data does not identify the customers concerned. Valve may share anonymous data, aggregated or not, with third parties. Other terms in this Privacy Policy have the meanings set forth in the Steam Subscription Agreement (SSA).

2. Why does Valve collect and process data that Valve collects and processes personal data for the following reasons: a) where necessary to perform our contract with you to provide a fully functional gaming service and to provide related Content and Services; b) where necessary to comply with legal obligations to which we are subject (e.g. our obligations to store certain information in accordance with tax laws); c) where necessary for the legitimate and legal interests of Valve or third parties (e.g. the interests of our other customers), except where those interests override your legitimate interests and rights; or (d) where consent is given. These reasons for the collection and processing of Personal Data determine and limit the Personal Data we collect and how (section 3 below), the duration of their storage (section 4 below), who has access to the (section 5 below) and what rights and other controls are available to you (section 6 below).

3. The types and sources of data we collect

3.1 Basic Account Information When you create an Account, Valve will collect your email address and country of residence. You must also select a username and password. Providing this information is necessary to register a Steam User Account. When you set up your account, your account is automatically assigned a number (Steam ID), which is later used to refer to your user account without directly disclosing personally identifiable information. We do not require you to provide or use your real name to set up a Steam user account.

3.2 Transaction and Payment Data In order to make a transaction on the Steam Platform (e.g. to purchase a Content and Services Subscription or to fund a Steam Wallet), you may need to provide valve payment information to enable the transaction. If you pay by credit card, you must provide Valve with typical credit card information (name, address, credit card number, expiration date, and security code) that Valve will process and send to the selected payment service provider to enable the transaction and perform fraud checks. Similarly, Valve will receive data from the payment service provider for the same reasons.

3.3 Other data you expressly submit, we will collect and process Personal Data each time you explicitly provide it to us or send it to us in communication with others on Steam, such as in Steam community forums, chat rooms, or when you provide feedback or other user-generated content. This data includes: information published, commented on or followed on our Content and Services; Information sent via chat; Information you provide when you request information or support from us or purchase Content and Services from us, including information necessary to process your orders with the relevant payment seller or, in the case of physical goods, shipping service providers; The information you provide to us when you participate in contests, contests and tournaments or respond to surveys, such as

3.4 Your use of Steam and the Websites. we collect various information through general interaction with the websites, Content and Services offered by Steam. The personal information we collect may include, but is not limited to, browser and device information, data collected through automated electronic interactions, and app usage data. Similarly, we will follow your process on our websites and apps to see if you are a bot and optimize our services.

3.5 Your use of games and other Subscriptions In order to provide services, we must collect, and use different information about your activity on our Content and Services. Content-related information includes your Steam ID, as well as what is usually referred to as game statistics. According to game statistics, we mean information about Game preferences, game progress, game time, and information about the device you're using, including your operating system, device settings, unique device identifiers, and crash data.

3.6 Tracking data and cookies We use Cookies, which are text files placed on your computer, and similar technologies (e.g. web beacons, pixels, ad tags and device identifiers) to help us analyze how you use our services and to improve the services we offer to improve the marketing, analytics or functionality of the website. The use of cookies is standard on the Internet. Although most web browsers automatically accept cookies, the decision to accept or not is yours. You can change your browser settings to prevent cookies from being received or to notify you each time a cookie is sent to you. You can refuse the use of cookies by selecting the appropriate settings in your browser. Managing the use of cookies for each browser is described in detail on the following help page: . Please note, however, that if you do this, you may not have access to the full functionality of our websites. When you visit any of our services, our servers record your IP address, which is a number that is automatically assigned to the network of which your computer is a part.

3.7 Content Recommendations We may process information collected in accordance with this section 3 so that the content, products and services displayed on the Steam Store pages and in the update messages displayed during launch of the Steam Customer can be tailored to your needs and filled with relevant recommendations and offers. This is done to improve the quality of customer service. You can prevent your data from being processed in this way by disabling the automatic loading of the Steam Store page and Steam notifications in the Interface section of the Steam client settings. Subject to your separate consent or where expressly permitted by applicable email marketing laws, Valve may send you marketing communications regarding valve products and services to your email address. In this case, we may also use the information we collect to customize such marketing messages, as well as collect information about whether you have opened such messages and what links in their text have been used. You can opt out or withdraw your consent to receive marketing emails at any time by withdrawing your consent to the same page on which you previously provided it, or by clicking the unsubscribe link provided in each marketing email.

3.8 Information required to detect violations We collect certain data, are required to detect, investigate and prevent fraud, fraud and other violations of SSA and applicable laws (Violations). This data is only used for the purpose of detecting, investigating, preventing and, where applicable, acting on such breaches and stored only for a minimum period of time to this end. If the data indicates that a breach has occurred, we will continue to retain the data for the establishment, exercise or defence of legal claims during the applicable limitation period or pending the resolution of a legal case related there to it. Please note that specific data stored for this purpose cannot be disclosed if disclosure violates the mechanism by which we detect, investigate and prevent such breaches.

4. For as long as we keep your data, we will retain your data only for as long as is necessary for the purposes for which the information is collected and processed or - where applicable law provides for a longer retention and storage period - for the period of storage and storage required by law. After that, your Personal Data will be deleted, blocked or anonymized in accordance with applicable law. In particular: If your Steam User Account is processed, your Personal Data will be marked for deletion, except for legal requirements or other legitimate purposes that require longer retention. In some cases, personal information cannot be completely deleted to ensure the consistency of the game or the Steam community market. For example, matches played that affect other players' data and performance will not be deleted; rather, your connection to these matches will be permanently anonymised. Please note that Valve is required to store certain transactional data in accordance with statutory commercial and tax laws for up to ten (10) years. If you withdraw your consent, on which the processing of your Personal Data or Your child's Personal Data is based, we will delete your Personal Data or your child's Personal Data without undue delay, to the extent that the collection and processing of Personal Data was based on withdrawn consent. If you exercise your right to object to the processing of your personal data, we will consider your objection and delete your Personal Data that we have processed for the purpose of which you objected without undue delay, unless there is another legal basis for the processing and storage of such data or unless applicable law requires us to retain the data.

5. Whoever has access to Valve's data does not sell personal data. However, we may share or provide access to each category of personal information we collect if necessary for the following business purposes.

5.1 Valve and its subsidiaries may share and use your Personal Data to the extent necessary to achieve the purposes set out in section 2 above. In the event of a reorganization, sale or merger, we may transfer Personal Data to the relevant third party, subject to applicable law.

5.2 We may also share your Personal Data with our third-party service providers who provide customer service in connection with goods, services distributed through Steam. Your Personal Data will be used in accordance with this Privacy Policy and to the extent necessary for the provision of customer service.

5.3 In accordance with internet standards, we may also share certain information (including your IP address and the identification of the Steam content you wish to access) with our third-party network providers that provide online content delivery services and game server services in connection with Steam. Our content delivery network providers allow you to deliver the digital content you have requested, for example when you use Steam, through a distributed server system that provides you with content based on your geographic location.

5.4 Google Analytics Our website uses Google Analytics, a web analytics service provided by Google, Inc. (Google). Google Analytics uses cookies to help website operators analyze how visitors use the site. The information generated by the cookie about visitors' use of the website will usually be transmitted to Google and stored by google on servers in the United States. IP anonymization has been activated on this page. The IP addresses of users visiting Steam will be shortened. Only in exceptional cases will the full IP address be transferred to a Google server in the United States and shortened there. On behalf of the website operator, Google will use this information to evaluate the website for its users in order to compile reports on website activity and to provide other services related to website activity and internet usage by website operators. Google will not mention the IP address transmitted in the context of Google Analytics with any other data held by Google. You can refuse the use of cookies by selecting the appropriate settings in your browser. Please note, however, that in this case, the use of the full functionality of this website may not be able to. For more information about how Google Analytics collects and uses data, see www.google.com/policies/privacy/partners. In addition, you can prevent Google from collecting and processing data about your use of the website by downloading and installing the browser plug-in via the following link .

5.5 We share certain data related to your Steam User Account with other players and our partners through the Steamworks API. Anyone with your Steam ID can access this information. At least the public name of the person you chose to represent you on Steam, and your avatar photo is available in this way, and whether you received a ban for cheating in multiplayer. You can control the availability of any additional information about you through the Steam Community user profile page; access to data publicly available on the profile page via the Steamworks API. In addition to publicly available information, game developers and publishers have access to certain information from the Steamworks API directly related to the users of the games they support. This at least the ownership of the game. Depending on which Steamworks services are provided in-game, they may also include information about your rankings, your progress in the game, achievements you have completed, multiplayer matchmaking information, in-game items, and other information needed to support and support the game. For more information about the Steamworks services that a particular game has introduced, please visit its shop page. Although we do not knowingly share personally identifiable information through the Steamworks API, such as your real name or email address, any information you share about yourself on your public Steam profile is available through the Steamworks API, including information that may make it identifiable.

5.6 The Steam Community includes discussion forums, forums and/or chat rooms where users can exchange ideas and communicate with each other. When posting a message on a forum, forum, or facility, please note that the information is made publicly available on the Internet; therefore you do so at your own risk. If your personal information is posted on one of our social forums against your will, use the reporting feature and steam help site to request that it be deleted.

5.7 Valve may allow you to link your Steam account to an account offered by a third party. If you consent to the combination of accounts, You may collect and combine information that you have authorized valve to receive from a third party with information about your Steam User Account to the extent permitted by your consent at that time. If linking accounts requires you to transfer information about your Valve person to a third party, you will be notified prior to the start of the call and you will be able to consent to the linking and transmission of your information. Your use of your information by a third party will be subject to the privacy policy of the third party, which we encourage you to read.

5.8 Valve may share Personal Data to comply with court orders or laws and regulations that require us to disclose such information.

6. User Rights and Controls The Data Protection Laws of the European Economic Area, California and other territories grant certain rights to their residents with respect to their personal data. While other jurisdictions may provide fewer statutory rights, we provide tools to exercise these rights to our customers around the world. To make it easy for you to exercise your data protection rights, we provide a special section on the Steam Support (Privacy Panel) page. This gives you access to your personal data, allows you to rectify and delete it if necessary and object to it if necessary. To access it, log in to the Steam support page in and select the My Account menu items -> data associated with your Steam account. In most cases, you can access, access, access, or delete personal information in the Privacy Panel, but you can also contact Valve with questions or requests through the contact processes described in paragraphs 8 and 10 below. As a resident of the European Economic Area, you have the following rights with respect to Your Personal Data:

6.1 Right of Access. You have the right to access your personal data that we hold about you, i.e. the right to request free (i) information about whether your Personal Data is stored, (ii) access to and/or (iii) duplicate personal data of detainees. You may exercise your right of access to your personal data through the Privacy Panel. If the request violates the rights and freedoms of others or is manifestly unfounded or excessive, we reserve the right to charge a reasonable fee (taking into account the administrative costs of providing information or communication or taking the requested action) or refuse to take action on request.

6.2 Right to rectification. If we process your personal data, we will make every effort to ensure, by implementing appropriate measures, that your Personal Data is accurate and up-to-date for the purposes for which it was collected. If your personal information is inaccurate or incomplete, you can change the information you provide through the Privacy Panel.

6.3. Right to erasure. You have the right to erasure of personal data concerning you if the reason why we could collect it (see section 2 above) no longer exists or if there is another legal basis for deleting it. For individual pieces of personal information, you should edit it through the Privacy Panel or request removal through the Steam Support page. You can also request removal of your Steam user account via the Steam support page. As a result of deleting your Steam user account, you will lose access to Steam services, including your Steam user account, Subscriptions and game-related information associated with your Steam User Account, and the ability to access other services that you use with your Steam User Account. We allow you to restore your Steam account within a grace period of 30 (thirty) days from the time you request removal of your Steam account. This feature allows you not to lose your account by mistake, due to loss of account login information or due to intrusion. During the suspension period, we will be able to finalize financial and other activities that may have been initiated prior to the request to delete your Steam user account. At the end of the grace period, the personal data associated with your account will be deleted subject to section 4. Above. In some cases, deleting your Steam user account, thereby deleting your personal information, is complicated. Date change: July 28, 2020 Page 12 You can request a refund for almost any purchase on Steam — for any reason. Your computer may not meet the hardware requirements; maybe you bought the game by mistake; maybe you played the title for an hour and just didn't like it. It doesn't matter. Valve, upon request via help.steampowered.com, will refund the money for any reason if the request is made within the required refund period and in the case of games if the title has been played for less than two hours. Below are more details, but even if you don't follow the refund policy we've described, you can request a refund and we'll check. You will be refunded a full refund within one week of approval. You'll receive a refund through your Steam Wallet or the same payment method you used to make the purchase. If for any reason Steam is unable to export. (Some methods available through Steam in your country may not support a refund back to your original payment method. Click here for the full list.) Couple Couple the offer, within two weeks of purchase and less than two hours of game time, applies to games and apps in the Steam Store. Here's an overview of how returns work with other types of purchases. Downloadable content returns (Steam Store content that can be downloaded in another game or app, DLC) purchased from the Steam Store are refundable within fourteen days of purchase, and if the base title was played less than two hours after the DLC purchase, unless the DLC has been consumed, modified, or transferred. Please note that in some cases Steam will not be able to refund money for some third-party LC (for example, if the DLC irreversibly level the character in the game). These exceptions will be clearly marked as non-refundable on the Store's website prior to purchase. Refunds for in-game purchases of Steam will offer a refund for in-game purchases of games developed by Valve within forty-eight hours of purchase, unless the in-game item is consumed, modified, or moved. Third-party developers will be able to enable in-game item returns under these conditions. Steam will inform you at the time of purchase if the game developer has decided to offer a refund for the in-game item purchased. Otherwise, non-Valve in-game purchases are non-refundable via Steam. Pre-ordered title returns After you pre-purchase the title on Steam (and pay for the title in advance), you can request a refund at any time before the title is released. There is also a standard 14-day/two-hour return period starting from the game's release date. Steam Wallet Refunds You can request a refund of your Steam Wallet within fourteen days of purchase if you purchased it on Steam and if you have not used any of these funds. Revolving Subscriptions For some content and services, Steam offers periodic (e.g., monthly, annual) access that you pay for on a recurring basis. If your revolving subscription wasn't used during your current billing cycle, you can request a refund within 48 hours of your first purchase or within 48 hours of auto-renewal. Content is deemed to have been consumed if any of the benefits or discounts included in the subscription have been used, consumed, modified or transferred during the current billing cycle. Keep in mind that you can cancel an active subscription at any time by going to your account information. Once canceled, your subscription will no longer automatically renew, but you'll retain access to your subscription content and benefits until the end of your current billing cycle. Steam Equipment Within the applicable time frame set out in the Hardware Return Policy, you may request a refund for Steam equipment and accessories purchased through Steam for any reason. You need to send the equipment back to us within (14) days after requesting a refund by following the instructions you provide. Please refer to the Hardware return policy for detailed guidelines for returning and canceling Steam hardware and accessories. Bundle Refunds You can receive a full refund for any package purchased from the Steam Store, as long as none of the items in the bundle have been moved and the total lifetime of all items in the pack is less than two hours. If your bundle contains an in-game item or non-refundable DLC, Steam will let you know if the entire bundle is refundable at check-out. Purchases made outside the Steam valve cannot provide a refund for purchases made outside of Steam (for example, CD keys or Steam wallet cards purchased from third parties). VAC Bans If you have been banned by VAC (Valve Anti-Cheat system) in the game, you lose the right to return this game. Video Content We are unable to offer a refund for Steam video content (e.g. videos, shorts, TV shows, episodes and tutorials) unless the video is bundled with other (non-video) content for return. Returns of gifts not returned with gifts can be refunded within the standard 14-day/two-hour refund period. Completed gifts can be returned under the same conditions if the recipient of the gift initiates a refund. The funds used to purchase the gift will be returned to the original purchaser. Right of withdrawal To find out how the right to withdraw from the EU for Steam customers works, click here. Abuse returns are designed to remove the risk of buying titles on Steam, not as a way to get free games. If we find that you are abusing returns, we may stop offering them to you. We do not consider it an abuse to claim a refund of a title that was purchased just before the sale and then immediately repurchase that title at the sale price. You can request a refund or get other help with your Steam purchases in help.steampowered.com. Last updated November 10, 2020
