Trying to break into the CoD: Warzone bunker during the next match in Verdansk? Bunkers can provide enough loot to fully kit out the entire team, with armour plates to spare. Finding them isn't too hard, but unlocking them can be a dangerous task. Sometimes they are even out for anyone preying, as a new bunker at Verdansk Airport added with Call of Duty: Cold War Season 1. To make your next match go smoother, I put together a handy breakdown of all their locations so you can collect valuable equipment contained in. Arriving unscathed depends on a healthy dose of luck, but you will have a solid advantage over your opponents if you make the right roll of the dice. Once you've done that, with the help of this guide, you need to find out which treasure is best for you and your team, and safely aim there – of course, while watching opportunistic campers. So with every Warzone bunker code you need in your back pocket, here are all the places you need, including how to get through sneaky Bunker 11 and locked stadium doors. After Call of Duty: Black Ops – Cold War involved announcement process, it's clear that bunker-type puzzles will also be used for future in-game reveals that span across games, so we'll be sure to let you know when there are new bust bunkers. Each warzone bunker code: All new locations and combinationsSo you will probably have a decent idea of where the standard bunkers are now, but reveal the puzzle for Call of Duty: Black Ops: Cold War added more doors and keyboards that rewarded loot and clues for reveal. Since Warzone Season 6, Foresight killstreak, which revealed future circles on the map, can also be found in bunkers, although its rate of decline has been quickly nerfed. Watch the video above to get into all of them. Or if you prefer it written, here are the codes (which, unlike the stadium one, are all solid) and the secret bunkers added during the lead up to reveal:(Image credit: Infinity Ward) Warzone Airport bunker locationNene new bunker in Verdansk from r/CODWarzoneCold War Season 1 apparently added more than just Rebirth Island and a pile of warzone weapons. There's also a new bunker, and this time, there's not even a code to crack. Instead, just find a literal crack in the runway at Verdansk airport. As seen above in reddit user Mundoschristmas's video, dive into the hole and you'll find a tunnel leading directly into a Cold War-era Soviet bunker filled to the brim with rare supply crates (and a chilling tribute to the Cold War campaign). There is no other catch, just be very careful. With the outbreak of prey in such a public space without restrictions, expect the airport to become a very deadly place to drop. At the top you can see a map with all the places of the Warzone bunker - for secret bunkers with keyboards outside, look further on this page. Note: Some of the places on the map above are so close together that they are marked with the same tag. Some pretty hidden away, so here are the other descriptions:00: On the coast south of Promenade West, head down from the cliff as if you were walking off the border to find your way to this mischievously hidden spot.01: North of the go-kart track and southwest of Boneyard.02: Road north by road from the previous bunker.03: Right next to 02, but you'll have to drop through the trap door.04 : Southeast of the dam, in the cliffs above the great Russian inscription.05 : On the west side of crash site.06: On the far east side of the map between the quarry and the lumber, above the train tunnel.07: East of the TV station, northeast of the stadium. However, they are so rare that it is not even guaranteed to appear in those, so keep your fingers firmly crossed when opening them. Next, you need to find the bunker. Here you have to be smart: These areas are often hot zones for key card players and sneaky chancers lingering in the shadows hoping to pinch one. Then look for the keyboard to the right of the door. Interaction with this triggers horizontal yellow bars to unlock, and the door opens. When you get this far, happy looting - you deserved it. Most of them will only have a dial tone when you call them, but the ones you're looking for will give you three numbers that match another set of phones you need to ring. It'd be a little easier if the numbers weren't in Russian, but here you go. So, here are the numbers 1-9 in Russian:0: ноль (nohl)1: один (a-deen)2: два (two)3: три (tree)4: четыре (chye-tir-ye.) 5: пять (pyat)6: шесть (shest)7: семь (syem)8: восемь (vo-syem)9: девять (dyev-yat)Now, once you determine the three numbers you need, your squad must split up and gain access to the corresponding numbered phones. Go to the same room as the MP7 and walk into the corner of the room to equip them. Of course, it is not necessary to forget that there is a nuke that you can see in the state of assembly in a separate room. However, you cannot communicate with or use it. How to get to the warzones stadium bunker at the start of season 5, players can now fully explore the inside of the central Verdansk Stadium. Lo and behold, the stadium is also hiding a brand new bunker with a numbered keyboard that needs a warzone stadium access code.
