Brooklyn 99 episode guide season 5

Good Doctor won't air the new season 3 episode on ABC on Monday. Fans were sad to hear the announcement, saying it was too long to wait for the next episode. Luckily, Good Doctor will return with Episode 14 on February 10. It's like Good Doctor Season 3 just returned from its winter hiatus, but the medical drama hit is now back with some rather heartbreaking news: there won't be a new episode of the show on ABC this week. Ugh. When the show announced its temporary break in a teaser clip at the end of episode 13, fans were pretty devastated. They took to Twitter to express their sadness at the news, complete with an array of sad face emojis. This content is imported from {embed-name}. Wait, why wait so long!?!? 🙄, another tweeted, I've been waiting for him 🙄 the holidays, another wrote, waiting so 🙄🙄🙄 possible. But really: Why isn't Good Doctor Season 3 tonight? It's a no-yell, but this kind of mini-interruption sometimes happens with big network TV shows. With only 18 or so episodes in a season that requires a stretch from September to at least March, shows like Good Doctor will take a few breaks during the season to make up that time. These breaks may be planned around big cultural events (think: world series) or historically low viewership periods (as one around the holidays), but sometimes they are only injected sporadically throughout the season. Jack RowlandABC on why there are no episodes on tonight, specifically? You can thank the Bachelorette. This week is set to be a dramatic one for the reality show - it has been teased that this season of his Bachelorette, Peter Weber, is suffering from a freak accident on Monday's episode. To address the incident, the show airs tonight a three-hour special episode and an additional two-hour episode on Wednesday. Wow. Of course, good doctor fans weren't thrilled to hear that The Bachelor was booting its favorite show from its usual time slot this week: this content comes in from Twitter. You may be able to find the same content in another format, or you may be able to find out more, on your website. The good news is that when The Good Doctor returns with episode 14 called Influence on February 10, fans will have plenty of drama to look forward to. The teaser clip for the new episode shows social media influencers throwing Dr. Sean Murphy into the spotlight, and the episode description from ABC promises that Lea will return to the whack things between Sean and Carly. In the meantime, fans just have to wait patiently for more of the good doctor - and maybe watch an episode or two on Hulu or the ABC website to help fill the void. It has been 38 days since the killing of his brother, Dext, the ice truck killer. Deborah lives with him, and Dux follows him wherever he goes, so he's killed someone ever since. When 13 dismembered bodies are found in Bay Harbor, the Miami Metro Police Department begins a wide-ranging man-run chase for a man the media calls the Gulf Harbor Butcher. The doctor is very involved in this case, given the bodies they found him. He doesn't like the name Of The Butcher bye Harbor, and instead prefers the dark defender, who some call him after it was revealed that the butcher was only going after criminals who had slid through the law. Dexter survives by framed Sergeant Dux for murders. The doctor's relationship deepens. He understands that his father did not actually die of a heart condition, but rather committed suicide after walking in Dukster, where he works with one of his dead. Dukster is broken by this reveal but ends up having a closer relationship with Deborah, who lives with her for several months because she couldn't go alone after discovering the ice truck killer was her boyfriend. Rita discovers that something goes with the doctor and assumes drugs. He believes he is a heroin addict and wants him to go on a 12-step program. In the show, she meets Leila, who takes her out for coffee. It seems she can really see him and scare him, so he doesn't want to go back to the doctor-Rita relationship becomes more complicated when Rita's mother comes to stay with Rita and tells her that the doctor is hiding something. The doctor refuses to return to NA, so Rita breaks up with her. The doctor starts dating Leila when she realizes she can see the monster she is, though she doesn't know she's a murderer and she doesn't care. The doctor begins to understand, though, that she is very crazy and that Rita seems to need her. It comes as a surprise to her that she really cares about Rita and the kids. The doctor falls apart with Leila. Leila begins date and uses her to reach Dext. He also breaks into Rita's house and eventually kidnap Astor and Cody and brings him to his apartment. The doctor finds them there, and Leila locks her and the children of her house and set the place on fire. They narrowly escape, and then Dukster finds him and kills him. While participating in the 12-step program, the doctor decides that he will no longer enter the demands of killing. She understands that her biological mother worked with Harry as an informant, and that's what killed him. One of the men who killed him is in prison, one is dead and the other is in the witness protection program. Doctor goes after one in protection and beating But he resists the urge to kill him. Later, the man finds Leila when she gives him the address. They fight, but the man runs away, the doctor tracks him to his cabin and decides he's who he is, so he kills him. Deborah starts dating a man from her gym, but it takes a long time to trust her. Even after he trusts her, he realizes that he has feelings for Special Agent Lundy, who was brought in for the Case of Butcher B. Harbor. They start dating despite differences in age, and Deborah is devastated when the case closes and Lundy has to leave. James Dux continues to follow the doctor and tries to find out his secret. At one point he follows up to the NA session and believes he is a heroin addict, but soon realizes that this is not true. He finds the doctor in the cabin and finds out that he is the butcher of The Bay Harbor. They fight and Dukster locks him in the cabin. After many negotiations with the Dux, Dexter decides to turn himself in, which will be easier for Rita and Deb in the long run, but at the last second he decides to continue his plan to frame The Dukes as a butcher. While with the doctor, Deborah gets in touch when they are closing in on the butcher. The doctor rushes to the cabin but the police are already there and the cabin is on fire. She later pieced together that Layla had used her GPS to get to the cabin. Once there, Dukes told him that Dr. Butcher was the port of the Bay. Turned on the propane and turned on the stove and blew up the dux to get closer to Dexter. Although Lieutenant Laguyerta does not believe it, Sergeant Dux is officially listed as the butcher of The Bay Harbor and is believed to have committed suicide. The doctor is free to go into his business as usual. Dexter has trouble killing his victims before going to NA. Paul is killed in a prison dispute and Dukster does not understand Rita's guilt. The doctor bids farewell to his brother, the ice truck killer, by throwing a teddy head into the water. Officer Pascal is given a Laguerta job, but Laguerta manages to fire him by causing personal relationship problems when he sleeps secretly with fiancée Pascal. Dexter kills a ButcherLess Harbor imitator. Layla frames Batista for rape, and Deborah tries to get Leila out of town. Find out what's happening in Dexter Season 3. The site in Your Country unavailable begins the fifth season of The Office with Pam at the School of Art in New York, Ryan returning to Dunder-Mifflin, Dwight and Angela having an affair behind Andy, and Michael meeting the woman revealing his dreams at new HR boss Holly. Pam eventually returns from art school, getting engaged to Jim and getting pregnant, while Holly and Michael enjoy a short but intense relationship before being moved out of town. Angela breaks up with both Andy and Dwight, and all three end up alone. Michael leaves Dunder-Mifflin after being disrespected by a new vice president Start his own company but return triumphantly when he is bought and his rival is exiled from Scranton. Title: Weight Loss Main Air History: September 25, 2008 During eight weeks during the summer, Dunder-Mifflin employees participate in a wide-ranging weight loss challenge company, which inspires the overall anorexia and Dwight to new levels of obnoxiousness. Pam, meanwhile, goes to art school in New York and the separation inspires Jim to offer him a break at a break (he says yes), Michael and Holly continue to flirt even as she goes on a few dates with a yoga instructor, with Dwight and Angela continuing their illegal adventure while Andy unwittingly plans his wedding and Angela's to their impossible standards. As a temptation, Ryan returns to Dunder-Mifflin with and fills in a reception for Pam, and it seems Michael is the only one happy to see him. Title: Business Ethics Main Air History: October 9, 2008 Thanks to ryan scandal at corporate, Holly has to do an ethics business seminar for the office. Michael encourages everyone to confess their moral transgresses, leading to Meredith admitting she regularly sleeps with a vendor to get a logistics discount and release Outback Steakhouse vouchers. Holly decides that Meredith should be terminated for this violation, and she and Michael have a tense lunch trying to convince her otherwise. Finally, human resources were swept under the carpet at the behest of corporate relationships. Meanwhile, Jim and Pam are announcing their engagement to each other, responding with general indifference. Title: Baby ShowerOriginal Airdate: October 16, 2008 Michael plans a baby shower for Jan despite the fact that he's not the father of her baby. She has given birth to the show now, toting along her newborn daughter Astrid. The rather pathetic shower goes ahead anyway, with Michael treating Holly meaning so to upset John. Michael feels nothing to do with baby Astrid when he keeps her, but when John tells her to date Holly, she goes back to the office and keeps Holly instead; Title: Crime AidOriginal Airdate: October 23, 2008 Michael and Holly leave the office door unlocked following an after-hours tryst, and Dunder-Mifflin is robbed. To compensate for the losses, Michael is conducting a charity auction with some seriously lame items, including a pair of Bruce Springsteen tickets that don't actually exist. Dwight panicked about Angela and Andy setting a date for their wedding, and followed Phyllis's advice to Angela ultimatum, but Angela did not respond. Jim is paranoid about what Pam might do without him in New York but is short of driving over to check on him. Title: Transferring employees Original Air History: October 30, 2008 After discovering the big companies that Holly and Michael are dating, they transfer Holly back to the new In driving from Scranton, he decides that a long-distance relationship with Michael will not work and will fall apart even though he appeals to him. To get in with Andy, Dwight decides to become a truly great cornell, stocking up on school memorabilia and even posting on a program. Jim and Pam have lunch in New York with the Jim brothers, who play a bizarre joke that involves humiliating Pam's dreams of becoming an artist, but she demots herself to them by playing along with this rather outrageous joke. Title: Customer SurveyOriginal Airdate: November 6, 2008 The annual customer-service surveys come in, and Jim and Dwight both have negative reports. It turned out that Kelly doctored the results to them to come to their closing party. Michael understands, but instead of a general rebuke, he accompanies him for the difficulty of persuading our co-workers to participate in social gatherings. Andy and Angela agree to hold their wedding at Shrut Farms, which gives Dwight another chance to try to get Angela back. Pam and Jim spend all day on the phone thanks to small headsets, so Jim hears a pam art-school friend trying to persuade him to stay in New York. Title: Business TripOriginal Airdate: November 13, 2008 Michael, Andy, and Oscar take a business trip to Winnipeg to meet with a client. Michael hooks up with the concierge to try to forget his heartbreak over Holly, while Andy tries to play for Oscar Wingman and ends up drunk dialing angry Angela, who resets her relationship to first base. Pam fails from one of her art-school classes, but instead of spend another three months in New York to make it up, she comes to Scranton's house to be with Jim. Kelly and Ryan hook up, but she seems less excited about the return of their relationship once it turns out that Darryl is not jealous at all. Title: Frame TobyOriginal Airdate: November 20, 2008 Toby returns to the office from his time in Costa Rica, and Michael is extremely unhappy about it. He and Dwight conspire to fire Toby and try to sexually harass him or attack Michael Goode, eventually framed him for unsuccessful marijuana possession using a salad bag. Ryan unleashes Kelly in a very humiliating way, which he takes in his usual unaware manner. Jim tells Pam that he bought his parents' old house for them and initially looks suspicious but eventually tells him he loves it. Title: The SurplusOriginal Airdate: December 4, 2008 Oscar discovers a surplus budget that must be spent by the end of the day, and the Dunder-Mifflin employees divide into two factions over how it should be used: One group wants to buy a new copier, while the other wants new chairs. It pits Jim and Pam against each other when Jim supports the copier. Eventually, Michael realizes that if he returns the surplus, he can receive a reward, but staff have picked him up in favor of the seats. Outside at Shrut's farm. It humiliates Andy while going from Andy and Angela's wedding plans and then luring Angela to a possibly binding wedding ceremony. His answer is to tell Dwight off and then plant a big, completely unsalted kiss on Andy. Title: Moroccan Christmas Original Aerial History: December 11, 2008 Phyllis planning a Christmas party with themed Moroccans and using the opportunity to bully Angela into becoming her slave, threatens to reveal Angela's relationship with Dwight if Angela does not do everything Phyllis says. Ultimately, Angela refuses, and Phyllis tells the whole office -- except For Andy, who is in another room and neglects. At the party Meredith gets drunk and fires her hair, which drives Michael to the scene of a catastrophic intervention for him and then pulls him into resorbing, both of which prove unsuccessful. Title: DuelOriginal Airdate: January 15, 2009 Michael finally tells Andy about Angela's affair with Dwight, and Andy and Dwight agree to fight a duel to determine who wins Angela's love. His rather pathetic muted face, with Dwight brandishing confidential weapons and Andy twisting Dwight with his car, did not lead in a winner, but each ends up so frustrated at Angela that Neither wants him to finish after the duel. Michael, meanwhile, goes to companies, where David Wallace wants an explanation for why the Scranton branch is doing it well, but of course Michael has no clue. Title: Prince Family PaperOriginal Airdate: January 22, 2009 David Wallace sends Michael to spy on a family-owned rival paper company, and Michael and Dwight manage to score some serious inside info by posing as a potential customer and a potential new employee, respectively. Michael is at odds over reporting information and twisting over the friendly family that owns the company, but Dwight convinces him it's cruel. While Michael and Dwight are gone, the rest of the office is holding an elaborate discussion to determine if Hilary Swank is a hot actress. Title: Stress Relief Main Air History: February 1, 2009 Dwight Scene Fire (to show office unpreparedness) causes Stanley to have a heart attack, so to reduce administrative stress Michael decides to keep the barbecue (of his own). He makes every effort to insult Michael and, ultimately, he brings it to heart. But he bounces in his usual unaware way, pitifully sniffing his colleague. Jim and Pam are having an impending divorce from Pam's parents, and Andy confuses his Hyde conversations about it for an enthusiastic analysis of an in-screen film played by Jack Black, Cloris Leachman and Jessica Alba in a slightly lame stunt casting. Title: Lecture CircuitOriginal Airdate: February 5, 2009 Michael is asked to tour the other Dunder-Mifflin branches to talk about his strategies for sales success and takes along with Pam as his assistant. In Utica, Michael's speech is as disastrous as expected, but Pam encounters a newlywed and pregnant Karen, and the two seem to be going through the past. It's inspiring Suggest deviation so that she can achieve closure with Holly. Back in Scranton, the new party planning committee co-chaired by Jim and Dwight have forgotten Kelly's birthday, so they work to make up for it by planning a completely pathetic celebration. And newly single Andy awkwardly tries to wool a perceived customer. Title: Lecture Circuit Part 2Original Airdate: February 12, 2009 Michael and Pam take their lecture tour to Nashua confront Holly, but she turns to be away on a retreat. Instead Michael encounters new boyfriend Holly and melts during her speech. He later finds a letter on Holly's computer that he wrote to her but never sent and Pam read it. Pam tells Michael that Holly still has feelings for her. In Scranton, Jim and Dwight continue to plan Kelly's pathetic birthday party and eventually find a way to make her happy. And Angela disturbs everyone with too much attention and affection for her new cat. Title: Blood DriveOriginal Airdate: March 5, 2009 Valentine's Day makes Michael depressed about his break-up with Holly, so he organizes a mixer for all the singles in the office, and invites people from surrounding businesses. Michael hopes to re-connect with the woman he shared for a moment while donating blood, but never shows up. Non-singles Jim and Pam share a couple's lunch with Phyllis and husband Bob, who are going very well until Phyllis and Bob sneak into sex in the bathroom, upsetting Jim and Pam. Title: Golden Ticket Original Air History: March 12, 2009 Michael comes up with the idea of putting five Will Wonka-esque golden tickets into random paper shipments, giving customers a 10 per cent discount. But when a big customer takes all five, the plot falls into flames and Michael tries to get Dwight to fall. Dwight goes for it, but he ends up getting credit when things turn around. Michael can't accept that and in the end no one comes out to look good. Meanwhile, Andy, Jim and Pam are given conflicting advice to Kevin on how to approach a woman he met in the single mixer, and he finally just ignores them and asks him directly. Title: New BossOriginal Airdate: March 19, 2009 New regional vice president Charles Minor (Idris Elba, The Wire) comes to Scranton and immediately shakes things up by not tolerating any of Michael's tomfoolery. Seeing Michael for what he really is, a terrible director, Charles cancels Michael's 15th anniversary party, dissolves the party's planning committee and implements sensible administrative policies. Dressed in a suit for a stand-up with Dwight, Jim also finally looks silly in front of Charles. Tired of weakening, Michael goes to New York to sue David Wallace but even decides to leave after being handy. Title: Two WeeksOriginal Airdate: March 26, 2009 After giving his two weeks' notice, Michael goofs off until he realizes that he has no plan for after leaves Dunder-Mifflin. He impulsively decided. Start his paper company and goes around the office trying to attract people for this new venture, but it takes no time to get him on offer. When Charles finds out what Michael is going through, he immediately instructs Michael to leave the office. After spending all day learning how to use new copies and then feeling unre respectable, Pam also quit impulsively, to join Michael in his ill-advised new business. Title: Dream TeamOriginal Airdate: April 9, 2009 Michael and Pam struggle to start the Michael Scott Paper Company, as Michael first is overwhelmed, and Pam later has serious doubts. They hire Ryan, but fail to bring in former remote market partner Michael Vikram or secure seed money from Michael's grandmother's investment club. Things turn around a little when Michael secures office space in a small utility room in the same building as Dunder-Mifflin. In Dunder-Mifflin, everyone tries by pretending to love his favorite sport, Football, which ends up backfiring for Jim to kiss up Charles. Title: The Michael Scott Paper CompanyOriginal Airdate: April 9, 2009 Michael, Pam, and Ryan have a stressful first day in their new office, where they bicker with each other. stage a pathetic pancake luncheon as their launch party and nearly decide to give up on the whole effort. At the end of the day, though, they make a sale, and things don't look so bad. In Dunder-Mifflin, Jim continues to be in trouble with Charles, who is asking Jim to prepare a report he is unfamiliar with. Dwight and Andy are testing their new-found friendship when they compete for the affections of the new secretary. Title: Heavy competition Main Air History: April 16, 2009 Dwight secretly passed on an in-house information about Dunder-Mifflin to Michael Scott's paper company, but after receiving praise from his salesman Charles, he decides to end it. He and Michael then find themselves engaged in a brutal competition to steal or retain key accounts. Even Dwight's various acts of vandalism can't prevent Michael from scoring a meeting with one of Dwight's biggest clients. In Dunder-Mifflin, Jim began to be baffled with Andy after Andy suggested that Jim might be unhappy with his relationship with Pam. Title: BrokeOriginal Airdate: April 23, 2009 Dunder-Mifflin continues to lose customers to Michael Scott Paper Company as Michael is offering sharply reduced prices. But when Michael finds out that his discounted rates will bankrupt his company in just weeks, he jumps at the chance to buy from Dunder-Mifflin, and he, Pam and Ryan all go back to the company, and Pam now works as a salesman. Charles vs. David Wallace looks stupid for relying on Dwight over Jim, humiliating Scranton and Michael in charge again. Title: Casual Friday Original Aerial History: April 30, 2009 with Michael, Ryan, and Pam Back in Dunder-Mifflin, there's a bit of tension as Michael dedicates Ryan and Pam all the customers they stole while at Michael paper company . Other vendors (Rescue Jim, who stays out of it by hanging out with Creed) are close to the coup stage, and Michael ends up bringing them his customers back. That only has enough customers left for another vendor, so Ryan has fallen into his old time job. Meanwhile, a number of staff are going too far with the occasional Friday frail and Toby decides to shut it down. Title: Café DiscoOriginal Airdate: May 7, 2009 Michael sets up a stereo and an espresso machine in the vacant Michael Scott Paper Company office and tries to entice the staff to join him for coffee and dancing. At first he gets into trouble in convincing people, and Phyllis hurts him when he's the only one who joins him. But then Kelly and Erin's new secretary start everything and soon dance away all day office. Pam and Jim plan to sneak away for a quick wedding, but while they dance, they realize they really want a big party for their nuptials. Title: PicnicOriginal Airdate Company: May 14, 2009 At the annual Dunder-Mifflin company picnic, Michael runs into Holly and her new boyfriend. Michael and Holly team up for a ridiculously slumdog millionaire plot about dunder-Mifflin history, during which they accidentally reveal the closure of the Buffalo branch. They don't turn on their romance again, but share a few meaningful moments that make Michael happy. Jim and Pam are caught up in volleyball matches that bring out Jim's rematch with Charles Minor. A minor injury sends my leg to the hospital, where he finds out he is pregnant. Pregnant.
